

FAQ's

What do you actually do?

This is a very open question and the simple answer is I can do as much or as little to plan your wedding as you want. This could be just venue sourcing or a full package of styling and designing.

How do I get married in this location

With many people looking for destination weddings, one of the questions I get asked is how they can get married in these lovely locations. With each country's laws being different, this is different for a lot of weddings. Some countries, for example France, expect you to be in the country for 30 days before the wedding, which results in a lot of people having the legal element of marriage in their home country, then having a blessing at the ceremony, which is lovely as it makes the ceremony on the day more personal to the couple.

Will you be there on the day?

I would love to be at all my wedding's, but this does depend on what services you book. If you only book some of the planning elements, then generally I wouldn't be, but if you have booked me for styling, then I will be there to make sure everything is ready as discussed. And if you book me for the full package or on the day co-ordination, I will be there all day making sure everything is in place all day, so you can just relax and enjoy your day.

Why should I choose you?

Every couple is looking for something specific and I completely respect if this is not me, however I truly believe I can make your special day the dream wedding you have always wanted. I not only have the experience of running weddings on the day from a service point of view, I also have the experience of planning the details up until the day, recommending suppliers or booking them.

Also, from completing the wedding planning style and design course, I have also enhanced my skills in design.

Finally, I love weddings everything from the first appointment to the budgeting and finally seeing them exchange vows and celebrate for the rest of the day.

How much does a wedding planner typically cost

Again, this is something which varies depending on the services you require and also the planner's experience and skills. All of my prices are based on a bespoke basis to ensure no couple pays more than they need to if they are not looking for certain tasks to be carried out for them.
